VENUE REVIEW

Impatient? Make a reservation at Feast, since waiting for a table on a busy Saturday night could otherwise take an hour. Ah, but it's worth the wait. The Mediterranean-inspired menu offers an eclectic mix of meat, seafood, and vegetarian options—all tasty, sized appropriately, and priced reasonably. It's actually possible to dine for around $10--really. Several choices are dual-priced for either small or large portions. Wood-fired pizzas start at $7 with a creative array of toppings. Desserts are $6 each, or $15 for a sampler platter of any four--you'll want that sampler. The wine list is organized by price, with 20 bottles under $20 and 12 at just $5.50 a glass. Crowds plus brick walls equal noise, but it's all satisfied eaters here.
