Whether you want to impress the parents by picking up the tab for once or traffic has you sidelined in Gwinnett—or maybe even both—Chef Chris Pyun has you covered. Back after a two-year hiatus in Dallas, he's shaken up the menu without compromising the quality or price that earned him loyal fans. Lunches start at $5, and all dinner entrées are under $30, though budget-conscious alternatives like blackened tilapia fish tacos ($10) and the daily burger ($8) abound. Appetizers such as the roasted red bell pepper soup with jalapeño coulis ($6) and Maine lobster ravioli ($13) are worth every penny. Ordering wine is easy since it's listed by taste (like "rich, smokey, sexy") and by-the-glass prices start at $4.75. Save every Wednesday from 5pm to 7pm with complimentary appetizers and Ketel One drink specials starting at $5. On Saturday nights several bottles of wine are half price. See, even low-lives can enjoy the Hi Life.
