In search of the perfect crab cake? Consider the Maryland-style crab cake (market-priced) at Village Tavern. Dense and meaty with nary a bread crumb in sight, it's served alongside a salad doused with tangy ginger dressing. Don't be fooled by the classic American steakhouse décor of warm colors, exposed timber beams, and a stone fireplace; executive chef Matthew Hughes is skilled in diverse fare and modern presentation. The ahi tuna sashimi ($10.95) offers tender, complex layers of flavor that rival the exquisite steak au poivre ($23.50 for 8 oz.). Save room for dessert because the crème brulee ($4.95) is a sophisticated treat to savor. The award-winning wine list (available by the glass, bottle, or in "tasting portions"), large selection of beers, specialty cocktails, and over 20 martinis add another incentive to dine outside the perimeter, whether for romance or business, or heck, both. NOTE: The Village Tavern currently has eight locations: Alpharetta, Ga., Birmingham, Ala., Broomfield, Colo., Charlotte, N.C., Greensboro, N.C., Scottsdale, Ariz., and two locations in Winston-Salem, N.C.
